

Further consolidation of the media is not in the interest of American society.